

MT. STERLING ADVOCATE.

LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN MONTGOMERY COUNTY

VOLUME XXI

MT. STERLING, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 9, 1911.

NUMBER 5

MISS LOCKRIDGE DEFEATS MISS TRIPLETT

By Small Majority in Big Atlantic City Contest,
But Both Will be Given This Delightful Trip.

MISSES McNAMARA AND DICKEY ALSO WINNERS.

The ADVOCATE's Atlantic City Contest, which has attracted so much attention, closed Saturday at six o'clock and the vote when tabulated by the judges, Messrs. Pierce Winn, C. B. Patterson and Jno. S. Frazer, was found to be as follows:

DISTRICT 1
Miss Florence McNamara..... 27,950
Miss Emily Tipton..... 16,700

DISTRICT 2
Miss Mary Lockridge..... 108,305
Miss Anna Mary Triplett..... 103,930

DISTRICT 3
Miss Margaret Dickey..... 35,225
Miss Farris Feland..... 18,555

As shown by the large vote polled, Miss Lockridge and Miss Triplett worked especially hard, and in view of their untiring efforts and the great financial success the contest has been, the owners of the ADVOCATE announced to the judges before the vote was counted their intention of sending both of these young ladies upon this delightful trip.

It is with no small degree of pride that the present management is able to say that the past year has been the most successful one in the ADVOCATE's history. Its business has nearly doubled, while its subscription has steadily increased, until now it has not only the largest subscription list, but the largest business of any paper published in the county. Its subscription list is open to any advertiser or patron for examination and comparison who doubts this statement, and we shall be glad to prove this to be true at any and all times.

We want to thank our friends, one and all, for their generous treatment in the past and to assure them we shall always endeavor to merit a liberal share of their patronage and confidence.

MISS MARY ANDREW LOCKRIDGE

MISS ANNA MARY TRIPLETT

The two leading contestants in the ADVOCATE's Great Atlantic City Contest, both of whom will be given this delightful trip to the world's most famous summer resort.

To My friends.

I wish to thank each and every one of you who helped me so generously in my recent effort to win one of the Atlantic City trips offered by the ADVOCATE, and only wish that I could thank each one of you personally; but as my time is short in which to make preparations for the trip, I take this method of expressing my appreciation of what you have done for me. Although I failed to win in my district, the ADVOCATE has been so generous as to make me a present of this delightful trip, and I am confident had it not been for your valuable assistance they would not have done so.

Again thanking you for your many kindnesses shown me and assuring you that my appreciation of same will never be forgotten, I remain

Sincerely,
ANNA MARY TRIPLETT.

Card of Thanks.

I wish to express my most sincere thanks to my many friends who were so kind as to aid me in my race for the Atlantic City trip given by the Advocate. I am delighted that I was so fortunate as to be returned the winner in my district and assure all my friends that while on this delightful vacation I will ever remember them, as I well know if it had not been for their valuable assistance I would have not won the trip. Again thanking you one and all, I will always be

Your sincere friend,
FLORENCE McNAMARA.

Card of Thanks.

To those who subscribed for the Mt. Sterling Advocate at my solicitation, or renewed their subscriptions, as well as to those who so kindly saved coupons enabling me to win in the Advocate's Atlantic City Contest, I wish to express my thanks, gratitude and appreciation.

The Home Paper For Absent Ones.

In almost every home there is an absent one who is off at college, school or in business. If that loved one is not receiving the home paper, he is being deprived of a great deal of pleasant news. Why not send him or her the ADVOCATE for a year? It will certainly be a most welcome gift and its coming each week will be almost as good as the letters from home. It costs only two cents a week and will give a dollar's worth of pleasure every time it comes. Write to the absent members of your family and ask them if they wish it sent. But you can save time and delay by subscribing for them at once, for we are certain what the answer will be. If you want the paper sent only during the time the college or school is in session we will arrange to do this, thus sending the paper only while the addressee is away from home. Does your neighbor borrow your ADVOCATE every week? Suggest to him that he subscribe and thereby have one of his own.

George Schegel to Wed.

Mr. George W. Schegel, of this city, and Miss Clara Thompson, of North Kenova, Ohio, will be united in marriage at the home of the bride, the 23d of this month. Mr. Schegel is a traveling salesman for the Berry Varnish Co., of Detroit, Mich., and has an excellent position. George Schegel is one of the most popular and energetic young men ever reared in this city. His friends are numbered by his acquaintances and all that know him are ever ready to speak a good word of George. His bride-to-be is said to be a young lady of striking personality and exceedingly attractive.

This is Vacation Time.

Where are you going to spend yours? Our party leaves for Atlantic City Aug. 17 and we have made arrangements whereby we can accommodate all who want to accompany our party at a very reasonable figure. All accommodations will be the very best and nothing will be left undone to make this trip the most thoroughly enjoyable one imaginable. For full particulars call at this office.

To Select Fair Dates.

The Montgomery County Fair Association in order to let all know its dates for 1912, without making a conflict with other fairs, will choose the dates for the next year at a meeting to be held this week. The board will at once go to work to make the fair next year bigger and better than ever, and will put on many new features.

Auto Parties.

Messrs. Jas. P. King, A. A. Hazelrigg, W. B. White, Caldwell Clay, C. C. McDonald, J. C. Graves, J. Miller Hoffman, Howard Wyatt and R. P. Thomas went to Lexington Sunday afternoon to attend the concert given by the celebrated U. S. Marine Band and all say the band is well worth going to hear.

New Firm.

Ed. T. Hon, J. W. Hon and D. B. Skidmore will soon open a new meat market and grocery store, handling nothing but the very best of everything. They have incorporated under the firm name of Hon, Skidmore & Co., and will be ready for business about August 15 in the Baum-building near the Baumont Hotel.

McCLURE-KING

Miss Nelle McClure, of This City, and Mr. Pierce King, of Winchester, Become Man and Wife.

Last Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, Miss Nelle McClure, daughter of Mrs. Mary McClure, of this city, and Mr. Pierce King, son of Robt. King, of Winchester, surprised their many friends by getting married in Winchester.

Miss McClure is the youngest daughter of Mrs. Mary McClure and is an exceedingly bright, attractive, accomplished and much admired young girl. She has many friends in this city who will join us in wishing that her married life may be one long and continuous day of sunshine.

Mr. King is a nephew of Mrs. Owen Morris, of this city, and is said to be a splendid young man of excellent habits and is quite popular wherever he is known and has splendid business qualifications. At present he is proprietor of a pool and billiard parlor in Winchester.

Lexington Fair.

The Blue Grass Fair which started in Lexington last Monday is proving to be a great success. The management made a great hit when they secured the United States Marine Band as many music lovers all over the state will flock to Lexington, if for no other reason than to hear his excellent band, and great credit should be given the enterprising and hustling secretary, Mr. Joudt Shouse for securing this wonderful aggregation of musicians. The fair is bigger and better than ever before and well worth going to see. The railroads are giving 5t rates.

How to Kill Shrubbery.

Mr. Nick Hadden, Jr., who is recognized as one of the most successful gentlemen in the county in killing briars, shrubs, thorn bushes, weeds, etc., has given us the following valuable information: The time to cut the growth is August 22 or 23 as it is dark of the moon at that time. The shrubs should be cut from 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 feet from the ground. It is said it is an easy matter to get rid of shrubbery if these instructions are followed carefully.

Miss Herriott Finds Diamonds.

The two diamond rings which were thought to have been stolen from Miss Katherine Spence Herriott at the home of her father, Mr. B. F. Herriott, were found at the residence between the mattresses of a bed where Miss Herriott had hidden them and had forgotten about it. In her sep Miss Herriott remembered where she had placed the rings and it was found there.

Boy Sent to Reform School.

Harry Crooks, a fourteen year old colored boy, was tried before Judge McCormick last week charged with stealing a lot of fixtures from the automobile of L. C. McCormick and selling them as old junk and on motion of the County Attorney was sent to the House of Reform near Lexington for three years. A few more convictions like this will break up such petty thievery in our community.

Mainleaf Third.

In the Horseman Stake at Detroit last week Mainleaf, owned by Jas. R. Magowan, of this city, finished third. Miss Stokes, first; Justice Brooks, second. The horse received a bad start in the first heat, being sent off five lengths behind, but finished a close third. In the second heat he and Miss Stokes finished right together, but the judges gave the heat to Miss Stokes, although the four timers said Mainleaf won the heat. The colt being short of work Mr. Curtis did not push him in the third heat. The best time made in the race was 2:08 1/2. It was the opinion of a large number of the horsemen present that Mainleaf secured a very raw deal, both in the start and in the decision in the second heat, and it is predicted that when they meet again he will take their measures.

Colored Fair.

The Colored Fair commences today (Wednesday) and continues for four days. The fair will be held at the Montgomery County Fair Association grounds and promises to be the most successful one ever held by the organization. It is expected that the largest number of colored people ever seen in this city will be here this week. In addition to the fair the State Grand Order of U. B. F. will also meet in this city and this will help to draw a large number.

Missionary Movement.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union, assisted by the missionary societies and churches have organized a City Missionary Movement and will hold a meeting this week and elect officers. It is the purpose of the new organization to engage a deaconess, who will look after all kinds of missionary work and meet trains and attend to charity work of all kinds.

Baumont Hotel Changes Hands.

The Baumont Hotel, which has been under the management of L. E. Daniel for several years, has changed hands, Mr. Daniel retiring. He will devote all of his time to his duties as traveling salesman. The new manager of the hotel is Mr. Arthur W. Holmeyer, of Indiana. The new manager will make several changes and will run the hotel on both American and European plans.

Garfield Perkins Dies Suddenly.

Garfield Perkins, formerly of this city, but recently of Owingsville, dropped dead in the Bath county city last Tuesday of heart failure, aged 58 years. Mr. Perkins, while a resident of this city, was an employee of G. D. Sullivan & Co. He was the father of Charley Perkins, a former employee of this office.

"Aunt Lou" Thompson Dead.

"Aunt Lou" Thompson, one of the oldest, wealthiest and most respected colored women in the State, died at her home in this city on Locust street last Thursday night. She was 77 years of age and left a fortune worth in the neighborhood of $30,000, which will probably go to her sister who lives in the county.

Licensed as Starters.

Jas. C. McDonald and John D. Greenwade, who acted with such general satisfaction as starters at our recent County Fair, have been granted license by the National Trotting Association of Hartford, Conn., as Official Starters.

Election of School Trustees.

Last Saturday School Trustees were elected in sixteen districts in the county. There were only contests in four of the districts, viz.: Howard's Mill, Lower Spencer, Salem and Peyton's Lick. Everything passed off quietly and the returns are as follows:

DIVISION NO. 1.

Prewitt—M. F. O'Rear.
Moberly—D. J. Burchett.
Lane—No Election.

DIVISION NO. 2.

Howard's Mill—L. M. Kash.
Lower Spencer—S. F. McConnick.

Hope—O. M. Sponcle.
Salem—J. S. Stokley.

DIVISION NO. 3.

Grassy Lick—W. W. Eubank.
Donaldson—John Swope.
Peyton's Lick—William Calvert.
Oak Hill—No Election.

DIVISION NO. 4.

Levee—Simpson Garrett.
Union—No Returns.
Gum Grove—M. F. Trimble.
Upper Spruce—Zack Brown.
Ficklin—A. W. Ficklin.

Notice.

In pursuance of a resolution heretofore adopted by the Democratic State Central and Executive Committees, in joint session, all Democrats, Independents and all minors who will be legal voters by the November election, 1911, and all voters who declare a purpose of affiliating with the Democratic party in said election, and who are residents of Montgomery county, are requested to assemble at the Court House at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, August 12th, for the purpose of selecting delegates to attend a Delegate State Convention to be held in the city of Louisville on August 15th.

Chas. B. Emerson, Cl'm.

Base Ball.

The base ball game at Spencer Saturday between the Spencer Giants and the Pealed Oak boys resulted in a one-sided victory for the Pealed Oak boys by the score of 18 to 2. Brooks Combs, pitcher for the winning team, pitched a remarkable game, striking out 23 men and allowing only two hits. He also did some remarkable batting, making 1 home run, 2 three base hits, 2 two base hits and one single out of six times at bat. His pitching and batting was the best ever seen on the Spencer lot, and it is reported that "Smoots" Brown has his eye on him for the big league.

Tenant House Burned.

A tenant house on the farm of R. M. Bridgforth was destroyed by fire Monday afternoon. It was occupied by William Updyke, whose family was away from home at the time. The origin of the fire is unknown. Mr. Updyke, who is a worthy man, has the sympathy of all who know him, since everything he had in the way of household goods were completely destroyed and there was no insurance on either the building or contents.

Ewing Fair.

The Ewing Fair which begins Aug. 17 and lasts three days, will be one of the best fairs held in the state this year. S. H. Price, secretary, has been on the jump for some weeks past and has an interesting program arranged. The races promise to be especially good. For a good old time attend this fair.

And a poll tax of $1.50.

There was also levied in accordance with the certificate of the School Board, for the educational needs of the county, a poll tax of 50 cents, and a property tax of 9 cents on the One Hundred Dars of property outside of the city of Mt. Sterling, Kentucky.

The present officials have succeeded in having the controversy between Menefee county and Montgomery county, regarding the old R. R. Bonds, finally determined by the Court of Appeals, under which decision that portion of Menefee county taken from Montgomery county will be required to pay Montgomery county between five and six thousand dollars. A levy has already been made by Menefee county and a payment of from $1,500 to $2,000 will be paid on the debt during the present year. The attorneys, employed many years ago to represent Montgomery county, have been paid and that matter is now in the hands of the County Attorney, with instructions complete said collection as rapidly as possible.

OUR CONTEST.

The ADVOCATE's much talked of Atlantic City Contest is over, a full account of which appears on our first page. The young ladies all worked hard, but the interest centered largely in District No. 2, where Miss Anna Mary Triplett and Miss Mary Lockridge were candidates. Being deservedly popular, the contest between them was especially close and in view of the excellent showing made by them and the ADVOCATE's present prosperous condition, its owners felt they could afford to be generous and therefore announced, before the count was had, that both of these young ladies should have this enviable trip.

No expense will be spared to make our guests have a thoroughly enjoyable time and upon behalf of the young ladies, as well as ourselves, we thank the people for their liberal assistance.

ATTEND THE CONVENTION.

By a resolution recently adopted by the State Central and Executive Committees, the Democrats of Kentucky are requested to assemble at their respective county seats, upon Saturday, August 12, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and select delegates to attend a Platform Convention to be held in the city of Louisville on the following Tuesday, when a platform will be promulgated.

Every Democrat owes it to his party to be on hand and participate in these County Conventions, as it is of supreme importance that only men who have the best interests of the party at heart be selected to perform this all-important duty of assisting in the preparation of a platform upon which our nominees will go before the people and ask their support in November.

We want to again urge the property owners in the Brick Street District, to concrete between the pavement, and the gutter and where ever possible, to do so on a grade with the pavement, as has been done on Maysville street adjacent to the store of Punch & Gray. This adds very materially to the general beauty of the street, straightens the pavement line and increases their usefulness. It is being done now, while the contractors are here, at a very nominal cost and we hope this improvement will be made before the present contract is completed.

BEWARE OF THE BUZZ.

Last week, the Plum Lick correspondent of our worthy contemporary, The Gazette, placed its handsome young editor in nomination for Representative in this District, while editorially the latter modestly remarked, "Should the Republicans select a man who is pable, honest and popular, and one whom all would recognize as worthy of the honor, his election would be assured." Get that bee out of your bonnet, Stanley. We think too much of you to see you or yourself as a sacrifice.

Having ruined nearly everywhere except in Montgomery county, it begins to look like the unjust get a trifle the best of it.

For Sale Quick.

I have for sale goods for trousers, light weight cloth suitable for ladies' skirts, also some suitings. Some bargains.

POLITICAL GOSSIP IN STATE PRESS.

ANY OLD PLATFORM.

Judge O'Rear wants to be Governor for the same reason the little boy gave for being a Republican. A man who owned a pet coon met three little boys, all of whom said they were Republicans. He agreed to give the coon to the boy who could give the best reason for being of that political faith. The first said he was a Republican because his father was. The second said he was a Republican because he would be best for the people. The third boy said he was a Republican because he wanted the coon. Judge O'Rear can stand on any old plank because he wants to be Governor.—Shelby Record.

DEMOCRATS WILL DO IT.

The O'Rear convention has swiped Democratic doctrine for the Republican State platform, but the Republican party of the nation, is log on platform promises and shirk performance, and if the principles enunciated in the O'Rear platform stolen from the Democrats, are ever put into execution, it will have to be done by the Democratic party, therefore there is nothing for the Democrats of Kentucky to do when they assemble in Louisville on August 15, but to adopt a sound Democratic platform and go before the people with it, regardless of the speculation of Democratic planks by the Republican.—Owensboro Inquirer.

INCONSISTENCY.

The Kentucky Republicans, having at first selected a beer garden in which to adopt the temperance plank in their platform have now supplemented that procedure by the selection of a beer stove manufacturer to conduct their city campaign in Louisville. But perhaps the locality has some influence upon both actions.—Danville Advocate.

FLAWS IN HIS ARMOR.

The Republican nominee for Governor in Kentucky, is the most vulnerable candidate the party has nominated within a quarter of a century. Instead of quarreling among themselves the democrats have only to be sincere, show a measure of wisdom, and go after the weak places in the armor of his modern knight to soon have him on the run, and with him, his inconsistent and wholly hypocritical associates. The people will not be humbugged by the flimsy vapors of a mere fanatic, who hopes through playing upon the deep string of human passion to arouse a sentiment that will sweep him into office. Once there anti-election promises will amount to but little.—Paducah News-Democrat.

COMIC VISION.

That vision O'Rear had about Bradley on the rostrum of the convention at Phoenix Hill, has like Mark Twain, made millions laugh.—Danville Advocate.

CORRESPONDENCE.

STOOPS.

Mrs. Claude Foley has returned from Swango Springs.

Large crowds continue to attend the revival at Somerset.

The millet crop looks like it was going to fail completely.

E. L. Fassett sold 14 feeders to Sid Hart at $4.75 per cwt.

Many from here will attend the Blue Grass Fair this week.

Chas. Hudson has been very ill, threatened with typhoid fever.

Harrison Conn and wife visited relatives recently at Poplar Plains.

Some fields of corn will soon have to be cut in order to save the fodder.

Mart Sorrell and wife, of Illinois, are visiting relatives in this section.

Jesse Cassity, of Flat Creek, is recovering from a severe spell of sickness.

Mrs. James Markland, of Paris, is visiting relatives in Bath and Montgomery counties.

Prospects here are for about one-third of a corn crop and less than 40 per cent. of tobacco.

There will be at least four "dark days" in Montgomery this week, the colored fair being the cause.

Bigstaff & Cockrell sold to D. P. Martin & Co., of Philadelphia, 120 head of 1925-bb. cattle at $5.50 per hundred.

Ten and twelve dollars per ton is being offered for baled straw. Some very common old hay has been sold at $21 loose.

The ADVOCATE's suggestion that the City of Mt. Sterling furnish a hitch lot for her country patrons is heartily endorsed. A little courtesy shown the country people would not fail to bring favorable results.

GRASSY LICK.

Harve Greene attended court in Paris Monday.

T. H. Carr sold a calf to Wm. Greene at 5c a pound.

Miss Thompson and Miss Calk are visitors here this week.

Jesse Rushford and wife, of Camargo, visited here Sunday.

Mrs. Will Ramsey and Miss Sallie Greene are seriously ill.

Mrs. T. J. Carr and daughters, returned Saturday from a visit to Owensville.

Mrs. Bruce Turner and granddaughter, Miss Ollie Stephens, are visiting in Carlisle.

Misses Grace and Anna Cassett, of Ohio, and Mrs. Holmes and daughter, of Dayton, are visiting the family of C. L. Dean.

HIGH TOP.

Barn meeting began at the Pocket Saturday night.

Mrs. Willie Caywood, Mr. Geo. Tout and mother have returned from a visit in Grant county.

Miss Leora Willoughby and her beau came out from Mt. Sterling Saturday to witness the ball game.

The Rounders played a double-header Saturday. The first game was with Camargo. It was a good game. The home team had the visitors shut out 1 to 0 until the last inning, when the visitors made 5 scores. The score was 5 to 3 in favor of Camargo. The Levee team was on the ground and began playing. The visitors played a good game but the Rounders were too much for them. The score was 6 to 3 in favor of the Rounders. The Rounders will cross bats with the Sharpsburg team Saturday, August 12, at Sharpsburg. The teams are well matched and you will witness an interesting game.

JEFFERSONVILLE.

Charles Anderson has been sick for a few days.

Mrs. Ethel Childers, who has been sick, is better.

R. H. Childers visited relatives at Maytown last week.

Mr. James Groom, who has been sick for some time is still very low.

Miss Lillie Lee, of Side View, visited Miss Gladys Richardson last week.

Lee Wills, who went to a Lexington hospital for medical treatment, has not improved much.

Preaching at the Saint's meeting house on Camp Branch Sunday by Bro. Oscar Sponole. Text, Jer. 21:8.

Charlie Stephen will move his mill in a few days back near Spruce and cut a boundary of timber for F. D. Richardson.

Arthur Chase, son of Patrick Chase, while making cider a few days ago caught his hand in the mill and had his fingers badly mangled.

G. M. Byrd, Mrs. F. D. Richardson and Miss Cloa Smith went to Winchester last week to attend the camp meeting, which will continue until the 13th inst.

Good rain Friday at this place. Most all ponds have been dry. About one-half crop oats. Prospects for the lightest corn crop Disease Wins Where 22 Bullets Failed.

Allen Prewitt, who was known hereabouts as the human sieve, is dead. Prewitt always claimed the distinction of having been wounded oftener than any other man who fought in and survived the Civil War, and offered as proof of his claim the scars of 22 bullets which struck him in the four years he fought on the Confederate side.

Prewitt was 67 years old and was born near Waverly, Mo., on a farm, which was his home all his life. At the beginning of the Civil War he joined the Quantrell band and was at the sacking of Lawrence, Kan. He was for a time with "Bill" Anderson, the noted guerrilla, and then joined Gen. "Jo" Shelby's command and fought in every battle in which it was engaged. He was wounded in nearly every one of the engagements, large and small. After the war he followed Shelby to Mexico, but soon returned and settled down on his farm near Waverly.

The above was clipped from one of the Missouri papers and if true Prewitt must have been a wonder.

Queen Anne.

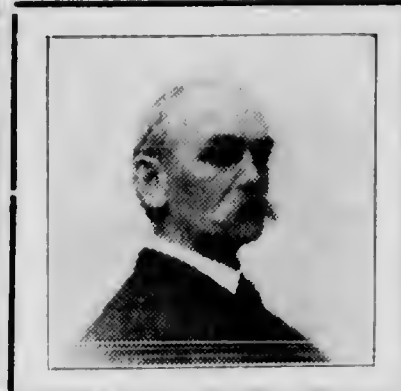

"First, then, a woman will, or won't—depend on it.
If she will do it, she will and there's an end on't."
—Aaron Hill.

Anne Boleyn was the second queen of the oft-married Henry VIII., one of the most picturesque figures in English history. At the time when he fell in love with his second wife the English court had become extremely dull and sedate. Henry himself was not especially endowed with brilliant talent, and his elderly wife, Queen Katherine, was severely plain and unusually devout. It was somewhere between 1522 and 1527 that this lovely woman, and the daughter of an English nobleman, burst upon the placid and stupid atmosphere. Anne had spent her early life at the French court, which was as gay and wicked as England was stupid. In France she had acquired the dash and cleverness of that court, and naturally, upon her return home to become maid of honor to the queen, she took the English court by storm. Almost immediately she set herself to work to win King Henry. This was no difficult task with such a fickle nature. She aimed for the throne, and it was but a short time until she had hit the mark. Soon as Henry came to admire her, he made her a marchioness and heaped rich gifts upon her. She feigned indifference, which was part of her game, but she gave the king to understand that she was willing to become the Queen of England. Henry decided to divorce Katherine. He claimed that as she had been his brother's wife, he professed to have qualms of conscience as to the legality of such a marriage. He called on the pope to sanction a divorce, but his holiness refused. Henry thereupon tore England away from the church of Rome, altered the form of the country's religion and declared himself sole head of the English church. They were married in 1533, and Anne was crowned queen on May 19. They had been married but a short time when Henry began to show weariness of his new wife. There has always been, and probably always will be a mystery in the fact that Anne Boleyn so soon lost the affection of the king. She did not lose her beauty, and her youth and accomplishments, together with her pleasant disposition. It has developed, through several sources of history, that Anne was simple and silly in her love of pleasure and gossip, and had the most foolish habit of constantly laughing. Anne had neither dignity nor self-poise in her relations with her maid of honor or of her conduct with the entire court. She allowed herself to be on terms of intimate gossip with her ladies-in-waiting, and the young gallants of the court could make jokes with her. In seeing her about Katherine of Aragon, Henry had thought her a merry girl with an unusual sense of humor. But when he saw her as wife and queen take delight in simple tattle, he soon wearied of any graces Anne really had. Anne Boleyn had a maid of honor, Jane Seymour, equally young and attractive as herself, yet with more dignity. As queen

WHICH WOULD YOU CHOOSE?

If you saw a row of apples, everyone differing in size, ripeness and color, and all for sale at the same price, wouldn't you choose the best? Why not do the same thing when you buy fire insurance? The cost of insurance is substantially the same in all agencies, but what you get for your money varies as much as the apples in the row.

Choose then HOFFMAN'S INSURANCE AGENCY. For Nearly Three Quarters of a Century it has paid every loss, big and little. It's reputation is unexcelled. It is the best fire insurance apple of them all, and its policies cost no more than those in agencies of inferior quality. Why not use the same judgment in buying insurance that you would in such a trivial matter as buying fruit at a fruit stand?

No. 2 had craftily supplanted queen No. 1, so Jane now proceeded to supplant Anne. So successful was the maid of honor that Anne's many enemies at court found the king a willing listener when they brought him stories—false or true—of his wife's unfaithfulness. Anne was tried for her life, sentenced and condemned to death. The day before her execution, which took place on May 19, 1536, she asked the governor of the tower if she was to die before noon, for she wished to be dead and past her pain. The governor assured her that her sufferings would be brief. To this she replied that she had heard it said "executioner was kind, and her neck was a very little one. Then she laughed heartily. The day that Anne's head fell from the block, Henry married Jane Seymour. When Anne was in prison awaiting execution she sent her husband this remarkable message: "From a private gentleman you have made me first a marchioness, then a queen. And as you can raise me no higher in the world, you are now sending me to be a saint in Heaven."

Best Farm in the South

A RARE OPPORTUNITY

No other investment equal to it at this time. 1300 acres—750 acres in cultivation. Balance in good merchantable timber.

On these lands are 7 houses and barns and two Steamboat landings. They are 2½ miles from railroad station. Land all level, rich, river bottom. Fine cane brake. This plantation made 300 bales of cotton and 10,000 bushels of corn in one year and can do it again. Figure the year out, put 300 bales of cotton at $50 each $24,000 00 Cotton seed $10 from each bale 3,000 00 10,000 bushels corn, 60c bu. 6,000 00

Making a total in one year of $33,000 00 To this add second crops and enough could be made in one year to pay for the entire farm, and with the entire farm in cultivation it would realize far more. Price, $30 per acre. Apply at this office. 48tf.

SECRET OF THE NEAT GIRL

It is Nothing More Nor Less Than Taking Care of Her Clothes.

We all have among our acquaintances the girl who, without being in the least good looking, always manages to look neat and well dressed.

Perhaps she has only a small dress allowance, and yet whenever you happen to meet her she looks smart and attractive, while other girls, with twice the money at their command, too often look shabby and dowdy.

What is the neat girl's secret? Nothing more nor less than taking care of her clothes; she has a place for everything and everything is kept in its place; her ribbons, gloves, handkerchiefs, etc., are not all huddled together in one drawer, neither do they lie about on the tables and chairs until they are wanted. Every article of apparel is put away with the most scrupulous care, first being dusted, shaken or mended, as the case may be.

There is a great difference, too, in the way in which girls put on their clothes; and very often a girl dressed in a shirtwaist and plain skirt will look twice as neat as the one clad in an expensive gown, the reason being simply and solely this: The one has put her dress on anyhow, the other has taken care that all shall be neat and fresh.

It is the duty of all parents to see that their children are taught from their babyhood to take proper care of their wearing apparel; for the child who lets clothes drop off her and lie in a heap on the floor invariably grows into the careless, untidy woman, with whom we are so familiar.

AN EXCEPTION

One of those cases when you would hesitate to say, "Unadorned, adorned the most."

FACING DEATH.

Why should we consent even to the semblance of lack of courage in our pagan trappings of woe at every death? We may well grieve that we are left behind; that a comrade whose face and voice and interpretation of life make half our joy should pass beyond our grasp. But if we believe that death is going to justify itself there is no right or reason in emphasizing grief. We were made to go onward, writes Louise Collier Wilcox, in Harper's Bazar. There is no permanent stoppage in the great procession passing from one eternity to another. And when we are forced to wave "farewell" to one who goes beyond our sight, let it be courageously and with a solemn gladness. "There is nothing to be commiserated," writes the good gray poet to one about to die. "I do not commiserate—I congratulate you."

Life Saver

In a letter from Branchland, W. Va., Mrs. Elizabeth Chapman says: "I suffered from womanly troubles nearly five years. All the doctors in the county did me no good. I took Cardui, and now I am entirely well. I feel like a new woman. Cardui saved my life! All who suffer from womanly trouble should give Cardui a trial."

E 61

Take CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

50 years of proof have convinced those who tested it, that Cardui quickly relieves aches and pains due to womanly weakness, and helps nature to build up weak women to health and strength. Thousands of women have found Cardui to be a real life saver. Why not test it for your case? Take Cardui today!

A Slow Law.

A St. Louis man, who sued the Inside Inn at the World's Fair in 1904, for a matter of some hundreds of dollars of salary, has obtained a verdict in 1911. A St. Louis woman who sued a real estate firm in 1905, for an accounting and resolution of her property placed in their hands and now hold them, has had a verdict in 1911. The real estate firm may appeal the case still further. And yet I thought that Dickens had made this sort of thing impossible by his exposition of the case of Jarndyce vs. Jarndyce. Seven years to decide a law suit is an outrageous perversion of law. Even justice at the end of such a time loses its value, and injustice becomes a thousand-fold more iniquitous and abominable. Such cases make law a hateful thing. It is no wonder the people have lost respect for the law. The weak cannot hope for anything from it. The strong use it to strengthen their oppressions. The cunning turn the law against its professed and proclaimed intents. Law is a battle or game, and justice is an accident, not an essence, of its spirit. No wonder that when you scratch an American who has not a staff of lawyers to steer him and twist the laws, you find a man who is more or less of an anarchist.

If trouble wants to stay at your house, hang up a sign that the rent's due, and the bailiff's coming to levy on everything in sight, and Trouble will think you have enough of him already.

FRECKLES GONE

"Simple Remedy from W. S. Lloyd's Drug Store Removed Them," Says a Society Lady.

"The best skin specialists told me that nothing would remove my freckles and that I would carry them to my grave," said a well known society woman, "but I fooled them all with a new drug, othine—double strength, that I bought at W. S. Lloyd's drug store, which cleared my skin and gave me a fine complexion."

The action of othine is really remarkable, for when applied at night, many of the freckles disappear entirely by morning, and the rest have begun to fade. An ounce is usually all that is needed, even for the worst case.

Be sure to ask W. S. Lloyd's drug store for the double strength othine, as this is sold under a guarantee of money back if it fails to remove the freckles. 5-9-13

Don't take yourself too seriously. You can't set the river on fire, and it would be folly to burn the woods.

Solve This.

About the year 1861 there came into Lewis county (where I was then living), a man by the name of Thomas Tarry, accompanied by his wife, two children, a boy and girl, and his mother, who was a widow. Shortly after his arrival his wife sickened and died. Tom soon tired of living without a helpmate and began to look around for another wife. He soon met and married a Miss Staggs, a daughter of John Staggs, in the neighborhood. After living to give him another heir, she also died, leaving Tom alone again with the care of a young baby. This did not suit Tom, so after a few weeks of mourning, Tom began to look around for a third wife and took another daughter of John Staggs to his heart and home. She, after bearing him two children, also died, leaving Tom alone again. In the meantime Mrs. Staggs, Tom's mother-in-law, died and Mr. Staggs, after an interval of several months, courted and married the widow Tarry. She was old and did not live long and Mr. Staggs, in looking for his third wife, choose Miss Tarry, Tom's daughter by his first wife. She bore him children, after which Mr. Staggs died. Now what we want to know is what relationship Tom's children, by his second and third wife, sustains to the children of his daughter, Mr. Staggs' third wife. These are facts known by many people yet living in Lewis county, Ky.

L. G. Howard, 68 West Locust street, Mt. Sterling, Ky., says:

"I had attacks of backache for ten years, but I never paid much attention to the trouble until about two years ago, when it became worse. My kidneys gave out all at once and the least work I did brought on such severe attacks of backache that I was hardly able to stand. There was also a difficulty with the kidney secretions, which caused me much annoyance. I finally procured Doan's Kidney Pills and their use rid me of every symptom of kidney complaint. I now keep a supply of this preparation on hand."

Buys Paper at Lawrenceburg.

Jesse M. Alverson, formerly of Stanford, but recently of Frankfort, has bought the Anderson News, a weekly paper published in Lawrenceburg. Mr. Alverson is the sole owner and will be editor and manager. The consideration was not made public. The News has a well equipped plant with modern machinery and a good run of type. Mr. Alverson will assume charge at once.

Mr. Alverson has been in the newspaper business in all branches for many years, having been with the Stanford Interior-Journal for a long time. He can do anything from setting type to writing a heavy editorial and it is predicted here, where he is well known, that he will make the News one of the best papers in the State.

Something New In Kitchen Ware

The "1892" Pure Spun Aluminum Ware is rapidly coming into use for cooking purposes. It is taking the place of agate and enamel ware because while its first cost is a trifle more than ordinary ware, it is really much cheaper in the long run, as it is guaranteed for twenty-five years and will last practically a life time.

The genuine "1892" Ware, made only from pure SPUN (not cast) Aluminum, will not crack, scale, peel, break, scorch or burn.

It looks like silver but weighs only about one-quarter as much, is easily cleaned and handled, and will not rust, corrode or tarnish. Absolutely pure, non-poisonous and wholesome; saves money, time and doctor's bills.

Be sure you get the original and genuine ware stamped with the Maltese Cross. At your dealers.

It Was the Time of Roses

By
ELIAS LIEBERMAN

"This passage," soliloquized the professor, making a marginal note in red ink, "is spurious. I am firmly convinced that it is the work of some monk who copied the original manuscript."

He nodded severely and placed the pen, still dripping with ink, behind his ear. Suddenly reminding himself that it was not a lead pencil, he took it up and gazed at it reproachfully.

"It is positively incredible how such flagrant dog Latin could have crept into a text prepared by Dr. Von Platz. The Germans more thorough than we! Bah!" He stuck the pen into his vest pocket.

John brought in a tray bearing a cup of fragrant coffee and some toast. The professor had worked on a glass of water until 10:30, preferring to get his breakfast in the middle of the forenoon. John noticed that his master was looking up at the skies hopelessly. He shifted his position to attract attention, even deposited the tray with more noise than was strictly necessary, but to no avail.

"Professor!" he finally whispered, very gently, into the scholar's ear. "breakfast is served!"

The professor looked at him sternly. A delightful little dream of a modern, outdoor university had been rudely interrupted by his intrusion. John was a good servant, a very good servant, but utterly lacked the scholar's perspective.

"John," he reproached, "why must you give expression to the obvious? That breakfast is served is a fact needing merely ocular demonstration. You must not regard the oral statement as necessary. Do you gather my meaning?" He sipped reflectively at the coffee.

"Yes, sir, thank you, sir," replied John, smiling. He liked the professor and wouldn't let a few big words stand in the way of friendship. Besides, he came on a message from the professor's niece. He was reminded of it by the Tarantelle which came tempestuously from the open windows.

"Miss Lucy wants to know whether or not you will see her, sir," he inquired. "She hasn't been feeling well this morning at all, at all, sir. I know it because—"

"Never mind the symptoms, John. It is a sign of an ordinary intellect to dwell at any length on trivial corroborative detail."

"Yes, sir, but what shall I tell her?"

"Of course I am ready. If you had the slightest powers of intuition you would have discerned—"

But John had whisked off, leaving the professor in the coils of painful reflection that the mentality of serving men in the United States struck an unusually low average.

A girl of 17 in a white lawn dress, wearing a richly colored Spanish scarf about her shoulders, appeared in the doorway. One rose protruded from her hair; another was pinned jauntily to her shirtwaist.

She threw herself down on the grass before the professor.

"Uncle, I'm miserable—miserable—miserable," she gasped out.

"Carissima," he said, patting her dark brown hair stoically, "what stroke of sorrow brings you here, prostrate at my feet, garbed even as the proud Castilians—"

"If that is all the sympathy I can expect from you, then I had better go," she said, pouting. "I hate the scarf anyhow. I hate it—hate it—hate it." "Vehemence neither adds to nor detracts from an eternal verity," remarked the professor, calmly, "but if you will pardon the question, why do you hate this beautiful variegated scarf and why are you so deeply grieved?"

"I hate the scarf because he gave it to me," she panted, "and I'm not grieved—not a bit, not the least wee bit." She snatched the rose from her hair and plucked away recklessly at petal after petal.

"Let me understand you properly," said the professor, as if trying to construct an interesting syllogism. "You hate the scarf because Mr. Chester gave it to you and yet you like Mr. Chester?"

"I hate Howard—or—Mr. Chester, too," she said, decisively.

"Hating Mr. Chester and hating his scarf as you do," persisted the professor, relentlessly, "why do you—er—array yourself—"

"Because," she hesitated, "because it goes well with the playing of a— a Spanish Tarantelle. Now you're going to ask me why I played the Tarantelle, but I won't—won't—won't tell you." She kicked at the turf while speaking.

"I was going to propound no such question," remarked the professor, taking off his glasses and blinking at them with an air of scientific candor, "because it would be entirely superfluous. I happen to be acquainted with the fact that the—er—tarantelle is one of Mr. Chester's favorite musical compositions. He informed me himself that he liked it for two disconnected reasons; one, that it is the musical frenzy of the volatile Latin temperament—"

"H-m-m-m," hummed Lucy.

"And the other that your face lit up—er—'gloriously'—that's his word—when you played it. Of course the second reason, judged from the standpoint of relevancy—"

A tear plumped on a blade of grass and trickled to the ground. Lucy rubbed her eyes. The professor took her head in his hands and stroked her cheeks.

"You love him, Carrissima, you love him," he continued, gently. "Not so utterly remote is the period when I—er—entertained a little dream myself—and the indications that point unerringly to the—er—helpless state are not foreign to my knowledge." He took the poor, mutilated rose from her and put it into his buttonhole. "Now tell me, what was the quarrel about?"

She looked up at him confidingly. "I scolded Howard awfully," she said, "just terribly. I raked him over the coals like the mean ent that I am."

"Pardon me for suggesting that a feline could hardly perform—"

"He wanted to explain, but I just stamped my foot this way"—an emphatic illustration—"and said that if he couldn't call to see me or at least

Looking Up At the Skies Hopelessly.

come once in three days—that was a sign he didn't care for me, and that I just hated him, and that our engagement was off and now I'm miserable, that's all."

"Semper femina," quoted the professor, "and now let me see—"

John came walking in across the lawn to where the pair were talking.

"Mr. Chester," he announced, "wishes to see the professor. I asked him a second time. He said—the professor." John looked mournfully at Lucy.

"John!" said Lucy, reproachfully. "Tell him to come with all dispatch," said the professor, "and you—looking at Lucy, 'go into that arbor at my left with as much precipitation as you are capable of.'"

Howard Chester loomed up, dragging a chair after him—a bit of forethought due to his knowledge of the professor's habits.

"It's all over," he said, ruefully. "I quit this blamed post-graduate work for good. I chased all over New York for the pamphlet you recommended, dug it up in a musty corner of the Astor—"

"Mr. Chester, neither your sentiments nor your language is in the least scholarly," corrected the professor, a smile lurking about his lips.

"Excuse me," said Chester, running his hand through his light hair, "but that is just the way I feel, like letting a few big, juicy swear words loose upon the scent-laden breezes. You'd think when a fellow did find the blamed information, had made copious notes and added another rare book to the bibliography of his doctor's thesis that he'd come home like a conquering hero—well, not by a long shot."

"If I am not mistaken," ventured the professor, "you are employing racing phraseology. That a member of the Phi Beta Kappa—"

"Shucks," responded Chester. "If I had a truckman's lingo I might fitly suggest that there's something wrong with me. As it is, I know my limitations. Listen here. After working like a Trojan—"

"That's better, at least a classical allusion although a trifle hackneyed," sighed the professor.

"After working like a horse," corrected Chester, "I come home to Lucy with the joyful news that my thesis is nearly finished and that soon another doctor would be imposed upon a gullible community and incidentally get a living wage at the college where he teaches and—be able—perhaps—to—er—marry—and—"

The big fellow's red cheeks turned decidedly redder. He took out a pocket handkerchief and ran it across his forehead.

"The matter is not beyond all repudiation—" began the professor.

"Yes it is," said Chester, mournfully, "if you had heard Lucy you wouldn't give a plugged continental for my chances. I'm giving up my post-grad work to go out west. There are plenty of places where a strong man—"

Unobserved, Lucy had tiptoed up to him.

"No, you won't, Howard, before you've forgiven me for being a mean, selfish, ill-tempered little beast that never deserved—"

Howard jumped up, beaming with happy excitement.

"Gypsy," he cried, embracing her. "Gypsy, if you knew how unhappy I've been!"

Off they walked unceremoniously, leaving the professor dazed at the suddenness of it all.

"On what insubstantial grounds does modern learning rest," he mused. "There is Chester, a young fellow with a brilliant future, author of a valuable contribution to paleography, willing to give everything up because, forsooth, Lucy indulged in a fit of temper! Queer, very queer!" His hand wandered toward his vest pocket. "Peculiar how the pen got into that pocket—but this is a queer world!"

SAW NO REASON FOR LIMIT.

"Politics," remarked Chief Moore of the weather bureau, "is a science as well as a circus."

"One of the funniest things I ever heard in that connection was about the cowboy delegate to the constitutional convention of Nevada when that territory was about to become a state. In the constitution was the stereotyped paragraph about the new state's having two senators to represent it in Washington."

"When it was read to the convention, the cowboy delegate rose and yelled out, 'What's the use of limiting it to two? We're overwhelmingly Republican, and we can elect as many as we want.'"—Sunday Magazine.

NATURAL CONCLUSION.

The following conversation was held by three little girls:

Nellie—I'm glad my father and mother are Christian Scientists. I never have to take any nasty medicine.

Dorothy—I'm glad my father and mother are not Christian Scientists. Every time I have to take nasty medicine, I get a box of candy.

Elizabeth—I wish my father and mother were Christian Scientists. Every time I have to take a dose of medicine, I get a good spanking.

HE REACHED A CONCLUSION.

Tom was the youngest of a large family and had to endure any amount of teasing. Every little while some one would say: "Tom, the bad man will get you!" At first it frightened him, but later he paid no attention to it. One day one of his sisters said: "Tom, what makes you so bad?" "I'm goin' to keep on bein' badder and badder, till the old bad man comes. I want to see what he looks like!" was Tom's reply.

PLAIN.

"Why in the world did she ever marry him?"

"How can you ask such a foolish question? He has a hyphenated name."
